Meet the Animals

In this book, you'll meet a variety of animals from all over the world, each with a unique and wonderful bottom. Here are just a few of the animals you'll meet:

- The hippopotamus has the largest bottom of any animal on land. Its bottom can weigh up to two tons and is used to help the hippopotamus stay cool in the water.
- The rabbit has a bottom that is called a "scut". The scut is covered in white fur and is used to help the rabbit communicate with other rabbits.
- The elephant has a bottom that is called a "rump". The rump is covered in thick skin and is used to help the elephant support its weight.
- The lion has a bottom that is called a "haunch". The haunch is covered in muscle and is used to help the lion run and jump.
- The giraffe has a bottom that is called a "rump". The rump is covered in spots and is used to help the giraffe reach high into the trees to eat leaves.

Animal Bottoms: Fun and Fascinating Facts

In addition to learning about the different animals in the book, you'll also learn a lot of fun and fascinating facts about animal bottoms. Here are just a few of the things you'll learn:

- Some animals, like hippos and elephants, use their bottoms to stay cool in the water.
- Other animals, like rabbits and squirrels, use their bottoms to communicate with each other.

- Some animals, like lions and tigers, use their bottoms to defend themselves from predators.
- The largest bottom of any animal belongs to the hippopotamus, which can weigh up to two tons.
- The smallest bottom of any animal belongs to the mouse, which is only about the size of a pea.

Activities

In addition to the main text, the book also includes a number of fun and educational activities. These activities are a great way for kids to learn more about animal bottoms and to have some fun at the same time.
