By Paolo Davide Farah and Christoph Schreuer

This book provides a comprehensive analysis of the most important model investment treaties, offering a critical assessment of their provisions and their impact on international investment law and policy.

The book is divided into three parts. Part I provides an overview of the history and development of model investment treaties, as well as a discussion of the key concepts and principles of international investment law. Part II provides a detailed commentary on the provisions of the most important model investment treaties, including the OECD Model Bilateral Investment Treaty, the UNCTAD Model Bilateral Investment Treaty, and the ICSID Model Bilateral Investment Treaty. Part III examines the impact of model investment treaties on international investment law and policy, including their role in promoting foreign investment and protecting investors' rights.

The book is written by a team of leading experts in international investment law and policy. The authors provide a clear and concise analysis of the complex issues surrounding model investment treaties, making this book an essential resource for anyone interested in this field.
