Her Ladyship's Guide to Greeting the Queen is the ultimate guide to meeting the monarch. This comprehensive guide covers everything you need to know, from the proper way to bow or curtsy to what to say and how to behave.

How to Bow or Curtsy

When you meet the Queen, it is important to bow or curtsy. For men, the proper way to bow is to stand with your feet shoulder-width apart and your back straight. Bend your head forward slightly and lower your eyes. For women, the proper way to curtsy is to stand with your feet together and your back straight. Bend your knees slightly and lower your head forward so that your eyes are looking at the ground.

What to Say

When you meet the Queen, it is important to know what to say. The proper way to address the Queen is "Your Majesty." You should also avoid using her first name or any other informal terms. When speaking to the Queen, it is important to be respectful and polite. You should avoid interrupting her and you should always listen to what she has to say.

How to Behave

When you meet the Queen, it is important to be on your best behavior. You should be polite and respectful, and you should avoid any behavior that could be considered rude or disrespectful. You should also be aware of your surroundings and try to avoid blocking the Queen's path or making any other kind of disturbance.
